“ President's Message for January 2016

Happy New Year to everyone! 2016 is set to be a very eventful year for Dogs Queensland. There is a great deal of work to be done on many fronts, and the Board is committed to pushing our organisation forward even further over the next year.

The members forum held last month at Durack was a very productive meeting, where a number of important and relevant issues were brought forward and discussed. The Board is committed to working with all members to achieve what is best for our organisation and for the membership as a whole. I'd like to thank all those, including the Directors, who attended our first forum and for having their say. More forums will be scheduled for 2016, including sessions in Zone 2 and Zone 3, and we look forward to even more members attending.

Availability of Directors to the membership

One key issue which was raised at the members forum was that Directors need to be representing the membership, even though Dogs Queensland is now a Company Limited by Guarantee and as Directors we have different legal obligations to previous councillors of the Canine Control Council (QLD) Inc.

All Directors on the current Board of Dogs Queensland are committed to working for and with the membership of our organisation. Simply because a Director is unable to physically attend Shows or certain events, doesn't make them unavailable and doesn't mean they aren't performing their duties as a Director. All Directors are contactable by phone or email, as well as directly through physical meetings.

Puppy Farming Legislation

Another key issue discussed at the members forum was the proposed State puppy farming legislation. Sadly we still do not have a lot of information at hand from the Queensland Government to make available to members. As information comes to hand, it will be shared with members, so that everyone is kept up to speed with what is happening with this significant issue.

I can assure members that Dogs Queensland is doing its best to stay at the forefront of this matter, and will continue to push the Queensland Government for exemptions for our membership.

Dogs Queensland Office - Service Delivery Review

Early in 2016, we will commence a service delivery review of the administrative functions of the Dogs Queensland office. The service delivery review will be designed to identify potential service delivery improvements as well as looking to enhance the efficiency and effectiveness of the office, and assist in determining the need for internal operational changes. The delivery review will also look at streamlining a number of services to online functions, such as litter registrations, title applications, etc.

Here's to a productive and prosperous 2016 for Dogs Queensland!

Copy deadline:

All magazine content for The Queensland Dog World is required to be submitted prior to the 1st of the month for the following months issue.

No exceptions can be granted.

Front cover photograph policies:

All readers of the Queensland Dog World are invited to submit photographs for front cover consideration. (a) Paid cover and breeds of the month given first preference. (b) Highest quality photograph chosen from above. (c) Actual photographs requested - not digital prints. (d) Only portrait (vertically aligned) photographs will be accepted. (e) In the event no photographs are received for (a) above, then a submission of another breed may be chosen - again, paid over non-paid. Head shots, groups or show poses are accepted.

The opinions expressed in contributor's articles are not necessarily those of the Dogs Queensland Committee. This magazine reserves the right to refuse the publication of any item or advertisement and, whilst every effort is made to ensure copy is reproduced correctly, no responsibility is taken for error.

Notice to advertisers

The Trade Practices Act came into force on 1st October 1974. Certain provisions of the act relating to consumer protection place a heavy burden upon advertisers, advertising agents and the publishers of advertisements. In view of the obvious impossibility of our ensuring that advertisements submitted for publication comply with the act, advertisers themselves need to ensure that the provisions of the act are strictly complied with. In cases of doubt, advertisers are advised to seek legal advice before submitting advertising material.

AMENDMENT TO UK BREED STANDARD – FRENCH BULLDOG

As a result of advice received from the Kennel Club of UK and after consultation with the National Breed Standards Coordination Group Chairperson Marie Merchant, the breed standard for the French Bulldog on the ANKC Ltd website has been amended as follows.

'HEAD AND SKULL' CURRENTLY READS:

Head square in appearance and in proportion to dog's size. Skull nearly flat between ears, domed forehead. The skin covering the skull and forehead should be supple enough to allow the dog to show facial expression. Well defined muzzle, broad, deep and set back, muscles of cheeks well developed. Stop well defined. Lower jaw deep, square, broad, slightly undershot and turned up. Nose black and wide, relatively short, with open nostrils and line between well defined. Lips black, thick, meeting each other in centre, completely hiding teeth. Upper lip covers lower on each side with plenty of cushion, never so exaggerated as to hang too much below level of lower jaw.

'HEAD AND SKULL' AMENDED TO READ:

Head square in appearance and in proportion to dog's size. Skull nearly flat between ears, domed forehead. The skin covering the skull and forehead should be supple enough to allow fine wrinkling when the dog is alert. Well defined muzzle, broad, deep and set back, muscles of cheeks well developed. Stop well defined. Lower jaw deep, square, broad, slightly undershot and turned up. Nose black and wide, relatively short, with open nostrils and line between well defined. Lips black, thick, meeting each other in centre, completely hiding teeth. Upper lip covers lower on each side with plenty of cushion, never so exaggerated as to hang too much below level of lower jaw.

'NECK' CURRENTLY READS:

Powerful, well-arched and thick, but not too short.

'NECK' AMENDED TO READ:

Powerful, well-arched and thick, of moderate length.

'HINDQUARTERS' CURRENTLY READS:

Legs strong, muscular and relatively longer than forelegs, with moderate angulation. Hocks well let down.

'HINDQUARTERS' AMENDED TO READ:

Legs strong, muscular and relatively longer than forelegs, with moderate angulation. Absolute soundness essential. Hocks well let down.

'COLOUR' CURRENTLY READS:

Brindle, pied or fawn. Tan, mouse and grey/blue highly undesirable.

(1) Brindle - a mixture of black and coloured hairs. May contain white provided brindle predominates.

(2) Pied - white predominates over brindle. Whites are classified with peds for show purposes; but their eyelashes and eyerims should be black. In peds the white should be clear with definite brindle patches and no ticking or black spots.

(3) Fawn - may contain brindle hairs but must have black eye lashes and eye rims.

'COLOUR' AMENDED TO READ:

The only correct colours are: Brindle; Fawn; Pied;

Brindle – Colour pattern caused by a mixture of black hairs and fawn hairs. White markings permitted provided that brindle predominates. Eye rims, eyelashes and lips black.

Fawn – Clear, self-coloured fawn with or without a black mask. White markings permitted, provided that fawn predominates. Cream and red shades less desirable. Eye rims, eyelashes and lips black.

Pied – Brindle Pied: White predominates with brindle patches. (The brindle as defined above). Fawn Pied: White predominates with fawn patches.

Whites are classified with peds for show purposes.

In peds, eye rims, eyelashes and lips should preferably be black.

Any white in the above colours should be clear with no ticking or spots.

All other colours highly undesirable, including solid black, black and white, black and tan, mouse, grey/blue, liver/chocolate and all patterns of these colours.

'FAULTS' CURRENTLY READS:

Any departure from the foregoing points should be considered a fault and the seriousness with which the fault should be regarded should be in exact proportion to its degree and its effect upon the health and welfare of the dog.

'FAULTS' AMENDED TO READ:

AMENDMENT TO UK BREED STANDARD – SCHNAUZER (MINIATURE)

As a result of advice received from the Kennel Club of UK and after consultation with the National Breed Standards Coordination Group Chairperson Marie Merchant, the breed standard for the Schnauzer (Miniature) on the ANKC Ltd website has been amended as follows.

'COLOUR' CURRENTLY READS:

All pepper and salt colours in even proportions, or pure black, or white, or black and silver. That is, solid black with silver markings on eyebrow, muzzle, chest and brisket and on the forelegs below the point of elbow, on inside of hindlegs below the stifle joint, on vent and under tail.

'COLOUR' HAS BEEN AMENDED TO READ:

- Pepper and salt – shades range from dark iron grey to light grey. Hairs banded dark/light/dark. Dark facial mask to harmonise with corresponding coat colour.

- Pure Black.

- Black and silver – solid black with silver markings on eyebrows, muzzle, chest, brisket, forelegs below point of elbow, inside of hindlegs below stifle joint, vent and under tail.

- White.

Good pigmentation essential in all colours.

AMENDMENT TO UK BREED STANDARD – PORTUGUESE WATER DOG

As a result of advice received from the Kennel Club of UK and after consultation with the National Breed Standards Coordination Group Chairperson Marie Merchant, the breed standard for the Portuguese Water Dog on the ANKC Ltd website has been amended as follows.

'HEAD AND SKULL' CURRENTLY READS:

Large, well proportioned, skull slightly longer than muzzle, well defined occiput. Muzzle tapers slightly. Forehead has central furrow for two thirds of the length of head, frontal bones prominent. Nose wide, nostrils well open. Black in black, black and white, and white dogs, liver in brown, brown and white, and brown tones.

'HEAD AND SKULL' HAS BEEN AMENDED TO READ:

Large, well-proportioned skull slightly longer than muzzle, well defined occiput. Stop well defined. Muzzle tapers slightly. Forehead has central furrow for two thirds of length of head. Frontal bones prominent. Nose wide, nostrils well open. Black in black, black and white, and white dogs, liver in brown, brown and white and brown tones.

AMENDMENT TO UK BREED STANDARD – WELSH CORGI (CARDIGAN)

As a result of advice received from the Kennel Club of UK and after consultation with the National Breed Standards Coordination Group Chairperson Marie Merchant, the breed standard for the Welsh Corgi (Cardigan) on the ANKC Ltd website has been amended as follows.

'COLOUR' CURRENTLY READS:

Any colour, with or without white markings, but white should not predominate.

'COLOUR' HAS BEEN AMENDED TO READ:

Acceptable colours are blue merle, brindle, red, sable, tri colour with brindle points and tri colour with red points.

All of the above with or without the typical white markings on head, neck, chest, underparts, legs and feet, white tail tip. White should not predominate on body or head where it should never surround the eyes. Nose and eye rims must be black. Liver and dilute colours highly undesirable.

RULES FOR THE CONDUCT OF RETRIEVING TRIALS FOR GUNDOGS - PERMANENT DATE FOR NATIONAL RETRIEVING CHAMPIONSHIP TRIAL

As a result of the 2015 ANKC Ltd Board meeting, Item 7.1 from the 2015 National Retrieving and Field Trial (NRAFT) Committee meeting minutes was endorsed where a permanent date is to be set aside on the calendar for the National Retrieving Championship Trial.

The rules have been updated accordingly and are available from our website at: <http://ankc.org.au/AboutUs/?id=1253>

IN LOVING MEMORY

Ronda Mary Bygraves

5/9/1930 - 31/10/2015

Acijay Kennels

It is with great sadness that the Cocker Spaniel Club of Queensland Inc has said goodbye to another senior member and Patroness.

Ronda Mary Bygraves crossed the rainbow bridge peacefully on 31st October 2015.

Ronda held many positions over the forty five years I knew her, and was a tireless worker – from the smallest task to Patroness. She was a wealth of information.

After two hip replacements slowed her down, you could find her ringside marking a catalogue. If you needed to know anything – ask Ronda.

She will be missed. Play happily Ronda, with those gone before.

WHAT ARE SIGHTHOUNDS?

Dogs Queensland Exclusive

Feature supplied by the Queensland Sighthound Association

Sighthounds, also known as gazehounds, are breeds that primarily hunt by speed and sight, instead of by scent. All Sighthound breeds are an ancient type of dog dating back to the great Egyptian, Middle Eastern, African and Southwest Asian civilisations.

Sighthounds are independent dogs, as the breed was taught to hunt and chase down game with little guidance from their humans, whereas other sporting dog breeds were trained to work alongside their masters and rely on cues or signals for their actions.

Perhaps surprising to many people, is the sedate indoor demeanor and behaviour of the sighthound dogs considering they are the fastest canines on the planet. Some are capable of reaching speeds of just over 45 kilometres per hour or faster, and can be the calmest and most relaxed breeds of dogs in the house, provided they are given adequate outside routine exercise.

Afghan Hound

The Afghan Hound was discovered by Westerners in Afghanistan and surrounding regions and brought to the UK in the latter part of the 19th century. There were two distinct types: the ones from the Southern and Western desert regions were of a rangy build, were light in color and sparse in outer coat. The dogs from the Northern regions were more compact in structure, darker in color and more heavily coated. The first Afghans in Australia were imported from the United States in 1934.

The breed is primarily a coursing hound, pursuing its quarry by sight. The Afghan Hound hunted singly, in dog and bitch pairs, in packs, or combined with specially trained falcons. A tremendously versatile breed, its quarry included hare, wolves, jackals, marmots and snow leopards. Because of the variety of game hunted and the diversity of the geography, the Afghan Hound's most desirable traits were being sure-footed and agile to work the rugged terrain, strength and speed to bring down prey, plus the stamina to maintain a strenuous chase for a sustained length of time.

The gait of the Afghan Hound should be smooth and springy with a style of high order. The whole appearance of the dog should give the impression of strength and dignity combining speed and power. The head must be held proudly, showing its arrogance, with its signature ringed tail held aloft. The eastern or oriental expression is typical of the breed. All colours are acceptable.

The typical Afghan Hound can be aloof and dignified with a certain keen fierceness, but happy and clownish when playing. The Afghan Hound's reasoning skills have made it a successful competitor in dog agility trials as well as an intuitive therapy dog and companion. Although seldom used today for hunting, Afghan Hounds are frequent participants in lure coursing events and are also popular in the conformation show ring.

Azawakh

The Azawakh is a sighthound from the Sahel region of Africa, which encompasses parts of the West African nations of Mali and Niger, including an area called Azawakh Valley. The dogs have accompanied the wandering Touareg people for centuries and were kept as camp guards and livestock guards as well as valued companions. The Azawakh's strongest character trait is as a watch dog.

These dogs often can be seen sleeping on the low straw roofs of the village homes of their Mali owners. As hyenas or other night predators approach, the first Azawakh to see it jumps down and is quickly joined by the others; they form a pack and chase away or kill the intruder.

There is no doubt, however, that back in the mists of time they share ancestors with the Saluki and Sloughi. In fact, another name for the Azawakh is Touareg Sloughi. The Azawakh is a rare sighthound; is aloof, with a complex personality, and has the unusual characteristic of being protective. The Azawakh, quiet to live with, is not suited to every home. Intelligent and loyal, the Azawakh must live indoors with his family, never outside with little attention.

The Azawakh has excellent running gear and is built for speed, but this has evolved over millennia for the purpose of heat dissipation, living in the harsh climate of the Sahel in West Africa. The Azawakh was never developed for hunting large or small game.

To the extent that all dogs have some level of prey drive, so also does an Azawakh, and the level of prey drive varies from average to none. They need regular exercise to stay conditioned.

Not terribly successful hunters on their own, they are not suited to coursing, although they enjoy lure chasing.

Particularly high in the leg and elegant, the Azawakh sighthound gives a general impression of great fineness. His bone structure and musculature are transparent beneath fine and lean tissues (skin). This sighthound presents itself as a racy dog whose body fits into a rectangle with its longer sides in vertical position. Covered by a short, thin coat that comes in shades of fawn, sand, brindle, black, grey, blue, grizzle, and all shades of brown, including chocolate. Some Azawakh have a black mask or white markings on the legs, chest and tail tip.

The first Azawakh was imported to Australia by Jumadabey Kennels in Melbourne.

Borzoi

The Borzoi was bred for hundreds of years by Russian nobility. They were developed by crossing the Eastern Asian Greyhound and a northern hunting spitz type dog for coat. The dogs were called Russian Wolfhounds in America up until 1936 when the name was changed to 'Borzoi', coming from the Russian word 'borzii', which means swift. The Borzoi Club of America and the Borzoi Club UK both prefer 'borzoi' as the form for both singular and plural forms (this is not the case in Russian, as the Russian plural is 'borzye').

Fierce on the hunt, this sighthound was used for hundreds of years to hunt wolves, fox and hare in the open plains of Russia. As the breed became more popular it was used more and more as a companion dog and its temperament became more docile. The Borzoi's talents include hunting, sighting and lure coursing. In a few places around the globe, Borzoi are still used as working hunters, and continue the breed's traditional role as capturers of large predatory game.

Borzoi, on average, are the quietest dogs around. Many never bark in their lives, believe it or not, but even the ones that are average in that department, seldom bark at anything other than game (cat, possum etc) on the other side of the fence.

Strangers are usually greeted with a grin or a nose shoved between the legs (such a perfect height!) but rarely with suspicion. They are, as a breed, worthless watchdogs.

The Borzoi was originally bred for the coursing of wild game on more or less open terrain, relying on sight rather than scent. To accomplish this purpose, the Borzoi needed particular structural qualities to chase, catch and hold his quarry. Special emphasis is placed on sound running gear, strong neck and jaws, courage and agility, combined with proper condition.

The Borzoi should appear well balanced, graceful in motion or repose, aristocratic, dignified and elegant. It is a coursing hound which must be courageous, powerful, and show great speed with a temperament that is sensitive, alert and aloof. The Borzoi should always possess unmistakable elegance, with flowing lines. Males, masculine without coarseness; bitches, feminine and refined.

Deerhound

The Deerhound's antecedents will have existed back to a time before recorded history. They would have been kept by the Scots and Picts and used to help in providing part of their diet, mainly hoofed game. The Deerhound was bred to hunt red deer by 'coursing', and also 'deer stalking'. In outward appearance, the Scottish Deerhound is similar to the Greyhound, but larger and more heavily boned. However, Deerhounds have a number of characteristics that set them apart. While not as fast as a Greyhound on a smooth, firm surface, once the going gets rough or heavy they can outrun a Greyhound.

The environment in which they worked, the cool, often wet, and hilly Scottish Highland glens, contributed to the larger, rough-coated appearance of the breed. The Deerhound is closely related to the Irish wolfhound and was the main contributor to the recovery of that breed when it was re-created at the end of the 19th century.

The Scottish deerhound is mellow, low-key and easy going — a gracious and well-mannered addition to the home. Outdoors, it loves to run and chase anything that moves. Indoors, it needs plenty of room to stretch on a soft surface. The deerhound is independent but willing to please; it is extremely sensitive. It is amiable toward, but often reserved with, strangers. This breed is good with children, other dogs and usually other pets.

It is, however, a true sighthound which has been selected for generations to pursue game; consequently, most Deerhounds will be eager to chase. The sport of lure coursing is most enjoyable to the Deerhound. In Australia, deerhounds have been used to hunt the kangaroo and wild boar. In addition, according to Teddy Roosevelt in 'Hunting the Grisley and Other Sketches', and some Canadian and American wolf hunters used them.

Greyhound

The Greyhound is one of the most ancient breeds known to man, and can be traced to almost every country on every continent on the globe. The first evidence of the breed was discovered in Egypt, with carvings in old tombs dating back to 2900 and 2751 B.C. depicting dogs of unmistakable Greyhound type attacking deer and mountain goats. There is little doubt that the dog of ancient times is the same as the one we know today. The unique and highly prized abilities of these sighthounds help explain why they have changed very little in 2,000 years.

Aristocracy and culture has always surrounded the Greyhound, and in early times only royalty bred them. England has played an important role in the development of the breed, with the first illustrations dating back to the 9th century. It was used on practically all kinds of game from deer, stags, foxes and such, but the hare is the Greyhound's natural quarry.

There are today three separate breeding lines that exist: they are racing, coursing and show greyhounds. Racing greyhounds are bred for speed, coursing greyhounds for a combination of speed, endurance, and courage, and show greyhounds for appearance.

Greyhounds Arrive in Australia 1770

The botanist Joseph Banks who sailed to Australia with Captain Cook on The Endeavour brought a male and female Greyhound with him on the voyage. Banks was a keen hunter and his diary entries often referred to the dog's regular pursuit of the native animals.

In 1788 when the First Fleet sailed into Botany Bay, on board were Captain Arthur Phillip (who was to become the first Governor of NSW) and his Greyhounds and 'assorted puppies'.

The Greyhound is strongly built, upstanding, of generous proportions, muscular power and symmetrical formation, with long head and neck, clean well laid shoulders, deep chest, capacious body, slightly arched loin, powerful quarters, sound legs and feet, and a suppleness of limb, which emphasise in a marked degree its distinctive type and quality. Possessing remarkable stamina, endurance and intelligence, they are gentle, affectionate and even tempered. They also participate in many other dog sports, including lure coursing, conformation, agility, and obedience, and beyond their grace and speed, people love them for their sweet, mild nature.

Irish Wolfhound

The Irish Wolfhound's name is derived not from its large stature, but from the breed's intended purpose: to hunt wolves. The wolf and boar (which the dog was also used to hunt as early as the first century) no longer exist in Ireland, in part to the presence of these protective hounds. This is a very old breed with Roman records dating as far back as 391 AD. They were used in wars, and for guarding herds and property and for hunting Irish elk, deer, boar and wolves.

They were held in such high esteem that battles were fought over them. Irish Wolfhounds were often given as royal presents. When the boar and wolf became extinct in Ireland the Irish Wolfhound as a result declined in numbers. A British army officer by the name of Captain George Graham bred them in the second half of the 19th century. The breed was restored by the introduction of Great Dane and Deerhound breeds. The Irish Wolfhound Club was founded in 1885 and it was recognised by the AKC in 1897. In 1902 a hound was first presented to the Irish Guards as a mascot.

The Irish Wolfhound is not recommended for small yards it will do better with a large yard. This is a giant breed that needs lots of space to run, but they do not need any more exercise than smaller breeds.

It needs to be part of the family and would be very unhappy in a kennel.

Being a sighthound, it will chase and as such, needs a secure, fenced area for exercise.

Irish Wolfhounds are sweet-tempered, patient, kind, thoughtful and very intelligent. Their excellent nature can be trusted with children. Willing and eager to please, they are unconditionally loyal to their owner and family. They tend to greet everyone as a friend, so do not count on them being a watchdog, but may be a deterrent simply due to their size. This giant breed can be clumsy and are slow to mature in both body and mind, taking about two years before they are full grown.

However, they grow rapidly and high-quality food is essential. While it is important to take a growing pup for daily walks for their mental well-being, hard exercise should not be forced and may be too taxing for this dog's body when it is young. The health and longevity of the Irish Wolfhound are also very important to consider. Because of their size, these hounds often do not live as long as other breeds.

Italian Greyhound

Often the question is asked as to whether the Italian Greyhound were bred for hunting or strictly as a pet? While historians debate the origins of the breed it is most likely the early IGs were used for practical purposes, i.e. hunting small game or controlling rodents and other vermin and was also known as a hunter of rabbits. The Italian Greyhound is the smallest of the family of gaze hounds.

The Italian Greyhound first appeared in the Mediterranean Basin in what is now Greece or Turkey. The breed is an old one and is believed to have originated more than 4,000 years ago in the countries now known as Greece and Turkey.

This belief is based on the depiction of miniature greyhounds in the early decorative arts of these countries and on the archaeological discovery of small greyhound skeletons. By the Middle Ages, the breed had become distributed throughout Southern Europe and was later a favorite of the Italians of the sixteenth century, among whom miniature dogs were in great demand. Sadly, though, 'designer' breeders tried, and failed, to make the breed even smaller by crossbreeding it with other breeds of dogs. This only led to mutations with deformed skulls, bulging eyes and dental problems.

The original Italian Greyhound had almost disappeared when groups of breeders got together and managed to return the breed to normal. It is due to its popularity in Italy that the breed became known as the 'Italian Greyhound'. From this period onward the history of the breed can be fairly well traced as it spread through Europe, arriving in England in the seventeenth century during the reign of Charles 1.

The Italian Greyhound is elegant and graceful without being weedy, they are extremely agile and fleet of foot. The description 'A greyhound in miniature' does not mean an exact small replica of an English Greyhound, nor is a scaled down Whippet in type, correct. The European Standard compares them to a Sloughi - a hound with similar movement but the Italian Greyhound must be more refined and not show any coarseness.

A sighthound in a small package, the Italian Greyhound shares its larger relatives' characteristics. It loves to run and chase. It is extremely gentle and sensitive. Reserved, often timid, with strangers, it is devoted to its family and is good with children, and other dogs and pets. However, it can be easily injured by boisterous children and larger dogs.

Pharaoh Hound

The Pharaoh Hound is the National Dog of the Mediterranean nation of Malta. Its native name is Kelb tal-Fenek in Maltese, which means 'Rabbit Dog' and is traditionally used for hunting.

For many years, the Pharaoh Hound was considered one of the oldest dog breeds, because it is thought by some to resemble paintings of dogs featured on the walls of ancient Egyptian pyramids and tombs. Recent DNA analysis reveals, however, that this breed is actually a more recent construction, developed out of different lines of European hunting dogs. This DNA data now puts to rest the 'Egyptian Myth' and proves the breed did not originate from Egypt. Another study 'Mitochondrial DNA sequence variation in Portuguese native dog breeds' found no evidence of connection between Iberian dogs and those of North Africa; showing again, no connection between Mediterranean hounds and dogs of North Africa. The Pharaoh Hound not only hunts by sight but by scent and hearing as well. It is an exuberant chaser, but it is relaxed in homes. They are known for being excited and happy dogs.

All Pharaohs may blush at times when they are excited. They do not blush in their cheeks but in their ears and noses. It is an independent-minded, highly intelligent, and occasionally stubborn hound. Positive methods should be used when training. Pharaohs were bred to hunt and think for themselves and they have retained this trait. They are very adept jumpers and are well suited to many dog sports such as agility and lure coursing. It has a very unusual hunting style especially on its own. When its prey, either rabbit or vermin, is in a mound it will bounce in the air on all 4 legs in an attempt to have its prey come out in the open or move. The Pharaoh Hound at first glance should appear both graceful and elegant as well as powerful and athletic. It should show strength without bulkiness or excessive musculature. They usually come in tan or chestnut colours and a white tail tip is commonly admired, white on chest (called 'The Star') white on toes. The ears on the Pharaoh Hound medium high set; carried erect when alert, but very mobile; broad at the base; fine and large.

Saluki

The Saluki, from the hot climate of the Arab Desert, is the swift, galloping hound of the great nomadic, pastoral, Bedouin tribes of the desert and has been used by them for hunting from time immemorial.

Historically, Salukis were used by nomadic tribes for hunting. All along the Silk Road the Salukis presence was known for almost as long as the dog has been domesticated, a testimony to its function as a hunter and his beauty as a companion. His image is found in many cultures. There are petroglyphs and rock arts in Golpaygan and Khomein in central Iran that shows saluki-like hounds and falcons accompanying hunters chasing preys (ca. 8000-10,000 BC). Typical quarry included gazelles, hares, foxes and jackals. An independent and aloof breed, the Saluki may seem reserved with strangers. They are gentle, affectionate, sensitive and intelligent they can be difficult to train and any such training should be gentle and patient, harsh methods should never be used. They can get bored easily, and should not be left at home unattended for long periods.

Salukis come in two varieties - Smooth and Feathered. Although we see mostly the feathered variety at shows, evidence shows that in their countries of origin smooth and feathered were equally desired. Some tribes only kept the smooth variety, but all the Salukis were used for hunting, and were selected as breeding stock based on hunting abilities and stamina.

The Saluki is a natural athlete that needs a lot of exercise, including a daily, long, brisk walk or run as they are happiest when running, This very independent dog should never be off-lead except in an isolated, scouted area. These dogs hunt on sight and will pay no attention to their handler's calls if they are chasing something. Salukis run at top speeds of 40 mph (55km/h) or more with their feet barely touching the ground. These top speeds are reached in short spurts, but they also have exceptional endurance. An excellent way to exercise your Saluki is to let it trot alongside your bike. Incredibly fast even over rough terrain they are excellent competitors on the lure coursing field.

Sloughi

The origin of the Sloughi is not known, but it is a very old breed. It was mentioned in a book by the Moroccan writer Al Mansur which was probably written in the 13th century.

Morocco holds the FCI standard, but the breed originated in the area which today consists of Morocco, Libya, Tunisia and Algeria, in the northern Saharan region of the Maghreb. The Sloughi is also known as the Arabian Sighthound, which is actually incorrect as it was the indigenous, nomadic Berbers (the Amazigh or 'free people,' as they call themselves) who developed the breed long before the invasion of the Arabs. The breed is locally known as the Sloughi Moghrebi, meaning the 'sighthound of the Maghreb.' The Sloughis held an elevated position in comparison to other dogs, and they were greatly prized.

Only chiefs and kings were allowed to own them, and much effort went into making sure that they were bred pure. An owner of a fine hunting female would travel far to find just the right mate for her. There were originally two types of Sloughi: the larger, more substantial mountain Sloughi and the smaller, lither desert Sloughi. In western countries there is less distinction between the two as they have been mixed. The breed is not, as previously believed, closely related to the Saluki. DNA testing has shown that these two breeds are only remotely related. The Sloughi's closest relative is the Azawakh which belongs to the Berber tribes of southern Sahara. Still, the two breeds have been separated long enough that there are obvious differences in conformity and temperament.

The Sloughi is a medium-sized, short-coated hunting sighthound of the desert type. An African sighthound, it was used to hunt wild game, such as desert hare, gazelles, foxes and jackals, often in cooperation with hunting falcons. It also protected the house and livestock of its owner. The breed is adapted to desert and semi-desert life in the Maghreb region of northwest Africa. This dry, lean and muscular hound gives an impression of rustic elegance as well as strength, and it is an efficient hunter with great endurance as well as speed. The Sloughis are affectionate, gentle, and very closely knit to their owners. They are intelligent and independent, and curious of their surroundings. They are quiet and calm indoors, and prefer to lie on soft rugs and blankets. Strangers are met with aloofness and caution, while friends are greeted with enthusiasm. Sloughis don't make great obedience dogs, but they respond to fair and gentle training methods. Sloughis get along well with children and other animals if they are raised with them. But as Sloughis are hunting hounds with a strong chase instinct, caution is recommended when the dog is outside with smaller animals.

Sloughis, and particularly young dogs, like to run daily. They make excellent jogging partners, and need to go on daily walks or runs. They will truly be happy when they are allowed to run off leash. Colours are all shades of light to red sand with or without black mask, black ears, brindle, black overlay and black mantle. The most common color is sand with a black mask. The facial expression of the Sloughi is gentle and melancholy, almost sad.

Whippet

The Whippet was developed during the latter part of the 19th century from various sporting, coursing and running dogs, including small greyhounds. Its name derives from the expression 'whip it', meaning 'to move quickly'. They were bred to hunt by sight, coursing game in open areas at high speeds, and to race.

The Whippet's ability to reach speeds of up to 60 kms (37 mph) suited him to track racing. Coursing these dogs was an entertaining form of gambling for the lower classes in England and the Whippet was nicknamed 'the poor man's racehorse'. During this period of time in English history, to make a living, the average citizen was either a coal miner, a tenant farmer, or worked in the mills.

This breed was adopted by the miners of North-East England who were keen dog racing enthusiasts but they also used the Whippet for coursing, as it was capable of catching rabbits and hares. The Whippet is an amazing athlete and its acceleration ability gives it jack-rabbit starts, covering 200 metres in 10 seconds or less. The Whippet gained the nickname of Snapdog from its ability to kill rats and rabbits with a sharp snap. Although still used as a working and racing dog and takes part in agility and obedience activities, the main role is as a companion.

Whippets have been described as the perfect 'all purpose dog'. They make wonderful house dogs because of their very fine soft coat and dog free odour. This, along with their gentle affectionate nature makes them an ideal breed to bring up with small children. The Whippet is quiet, easy to groom and is by no means as delicate as they look. It is graceful in movement and rabbit fast on the lure coursing field.

The Azawakh

Dogs Queensland Exclusive

Supplied by Christine Stevens

Brief History

Bred by the Tuareg, Fula and various other nomads of the Sahara and sub-Saharan in the countries of Mali, Niger, Burkina Faso, and southern Algeria. The primary function of the Azawakh in its native land is that of protector and flock guard, to protect the animals from the attack of jackals or hyenas during the night.

They are capable of reaching speeds between 60-70 km/hr. The breed made its debut in Europe around 1970, first arriving in former Yugoslavia and France. The official FCI standard was adopted in 1994. The breed was accepted in Australia in January 2012.

Brief Description

The Azawakh is particularly slender, elegant and showing great refinement. Bone and muscle structure is visible under very fine, dry skin. A rather narrow, long, fine head. Ears are set high. Neck is long and muscular slightly arched. Topline straight rising to hips, prominent withers, slightly arched loin and protruding hipbones. The chest is narrow, well developed in depth but not reaching elbows, high tuck up.

Long thighs, angulation not exaggerated, dry muscle. Feet rounded, with tightly closed toes. Tail set is low, carried down with slight curl at end with white tip or trace of white.

Light, lissome movement which gives an impression of lightness and elasticity. Very short fine coat. Colours are fawn with or without brindling, with white patching limited to the extremities. All shades are admitted, clear sand to dark fawn (mahogany). Brindles should be black excluding any other shade, the muzzle can present a black mask. On the fore chest, white may be present as white patched, confined to the base of the neck. The bib should not extend past the point of the shoulder or go up on each side of the neck. Each of the four limbs has a white stocking.

Azawakh are highly suspicious of strangers. The breed can be extremely difficult to rehome. They are a highly intelligent breed. Lifelong socialisation and firm but gentle handling are critical.

*RUMA - Ch Worgeordie Endidi Na'ema (Imp UK)
Owned by Debra Huon, first Azawakh imported into Australia*

Health

Azawakhs are an incredibly sound coursing hound and very rarely are there any serious coursing injuries.

They are one of the most heat tolerant of all dog breeds and able to work in temperatures of over 35 degrees, however, they are intolerant of the cold as they have no natural protection. They get cold easily and frequently shiver when temperatures begin to drop.

Azawakh breeders have identified a number of problems that appear in the breed with varying frequencies — Epilepsy, Hypothyroidism, autoimmune disorders, wobblers disease, bloat and cold intolerance.

Like the Basenji the Azawakh bitch often has a single annual season. Unassisted birth of healthy puppies is the norm. Litter sizes are usually from four to six puppies.

The Azawakh is regarded as being among the most ancient breeds of sighthounds. What is thought to be the first depictions of the Azawakh appear on petroglyphs dating between 6,000 and 8,000 BC.

These depict sighthound-type dogs hunting wild beasts with the tribes that roamed the Sahara, a time when the Sahara was greener than it is today. They served as guardians, hunters and companions.

The Sahara was bordered by oceans on the east and west coasts, with fertile regions north and south. The fertile strip between the Sahara and the Mediterranean is known as the Maghreb, the wider strip between the Sahara and the Jungles became known as the Sahel.

At the close of the wet phase in the four millennium BC, the Sahara returned to desert and there became a formidable physical barrier that saw the Azawakh almost totally isolated from the northern dogs, but the ties to the pariah dogs to the south are close.

It is a theory that the saluki spread to the Maghreb, where due to environment and breeding it developed into a similar type breed called the Sloughi. The Taureg and Beja tribes who roamed the great deserts of the Sahara brought their Sloughi dogs south. The Sahelian tribes then bred the Sloughi into what is now known as the Azawakh.

While this decent theory is feasible recent genetic testing has shown that the Azawakh is closely related to the African Pariah Dogs. These tests have also indicated that the Azawakh possesses a unique variety of the glucose isomerase gene. The only other canids known to have this gene are foxes, jackals, Italian wolves, Sloughis and a few Japanese Breeds. This leads to speculation that the Azawakh ancestors may have been occasionally crossed with the Jackal.

If true the jackal may have introduced the survival traits to the Azawakh that allows it to survive living in one of the worlds most harshest and driest places.

The connection between the Pariah dogs of the Sahel and the Azawakh is seen in the breeding practices of the Sahelian tribes as they do not make a distinction between the Al hor (noble breeds such as the Saluki, Afghan Hound, Sloughis) and the Kelb (mongrels) Pariah Dog, allowing all their dogs to interbreed freely.

As a result of the environment the Azawakh lives in only the fittest survive and this has brought out the hardiness and independence that the breed is known for. They are pack hunters and they bump down the quarry with their hindquarters after giving chase and tiring it out.

As a guard dog it will bark to alert the others in the pack and then hunt as one under the lead alpha dog to ward off the predator.

Azawakh's are typically a 'one master' dog and its territorial instinct is highly developed. Suspicious and avoidant, even after thousands of years of domestication, it continues to display feral behaviours being highly independent and emotionally resilient. They have been described as the 'Warrior Class Dog', very intelligent and very protective of their home territory. When approached on their home turf they can be very vocally intimidating and in total contrast also be quite sensitive and very affectionate with those it accepts. Their reactions to strangers can differ from friendly to mildly curious to totally indifferent.

They are not an outgoing dog but should not appear to be panicky, timid or aggressive to the point of attack. In the Sahel they are not aggressive but have a tendency to prefer not to be touched.

Like any sighthound the Azawakh needs lots of exercise and its mind occupied. It is great for performance sports agility, lure coursing, lure racing, obedience and the conformation ring.

Judging the Azawakh – Do's and Dont's

FCI judge and Azawakh breeder Dr Christian Vantu writes "if you want to judge Azwakhs, first of all try to forget all other breeds, shapes and proportions with which you are familiar, try to forget also the classic dog temperament and behavior and be prepared to accept something different."

The Do's

- Approach on an angle, not right to the dog
- Ask handler if the dog minds being touched
- If difficult to touch, ask handler to mouth the dog
- Examine as quickly and smoothly as possible
- Talk to handler only
- Be confident and calm
- Read breed standard extension, all of it and new amendments.

The Don'ts

- Approach directly in front of or from behind the dog
- Do not talk while examining the dog
- Continue touching if dog is growling or trying to avoid you
- Lean over the dog or put your face too close
- Expect Azawakh to be show dogs, they are too primitive for that

If you've wandered past the Group 4 ring, or General Special ring, chances are you've seen them. Nobody can deny that Kyall and Foodie the Pharaoh Hound make an excellent team. With multiple Best in Show, Best in Group, Classes in Group and Show, local and interstate Royal Group placements, and Specialty wins, they've more than earned Foodie's Supreme Champion title.

Kyall has competed in Junior Handler competitions since 2008, with some big wins to his name. First and Second places in age group at the Sydney Royal 2009, 2010, 2012, 2013, culminating with winning the overall Sydney Royal Junior Handler competition in 2014.

In 2014 and 2015, Kyall won back-to-back Melbourne Royal Champion Showmanship competitions.

The new kids on the block are Foodie's son, Alfred (Sleykh Suit N Tie [AI]), who Kyall handled to Baby Puppy in Show at the 2015 Melbourne Royal, while Foodie was placed Group 4!

Arriving late last year is Roo (Ir Ch, Ir J C Hard Black Jack Cukker), born in Hungary who went to Ireland for showing; where he very quickly made up his points for his Junior and Irish Champion titles, and even won a Group 2 in the very few months he was there.

While Foodie and Alfred are co-owned by Karen Lever and Annika Oksa-Walker, and Roo owned by Karen Lever - it is clear that Kyall has a very special place in each of the dogs' hearts.

The next time you're around the rings, keep an eye out for Kyall and the Pharaohs – they're hard to miss!

The Pharaoh Hound

The Pharaoh Hound is the oldest domesticated dog in recorded history. There are Egyptian written references dating back to 4000BC and a royal tomb of 2300BC contains a wonderful illustration of a Pharaoh hound. It is thought Phoenician traders took them to Malta where they were bred unchanged for over 2000 years.

Average size, weight and lifespan:

Dogs: 56 - 63cms

Bitches: 53 - 61cms

Lifespan: About 12 - 14 years

Personality, characteristics and temperament:

Pharaohs are highly intelligent, affectionate, full of fun, and are very good with children. Some are very outgoing at once with strangers, others at first a little diffident.

Care requirements:

The short and glossy coat requires minimal upkeep, the occasional grooming and bath will keep the Pharaoh looking and smelling his best. Secure yard is a must.

Ideal owners:

Active people and families.

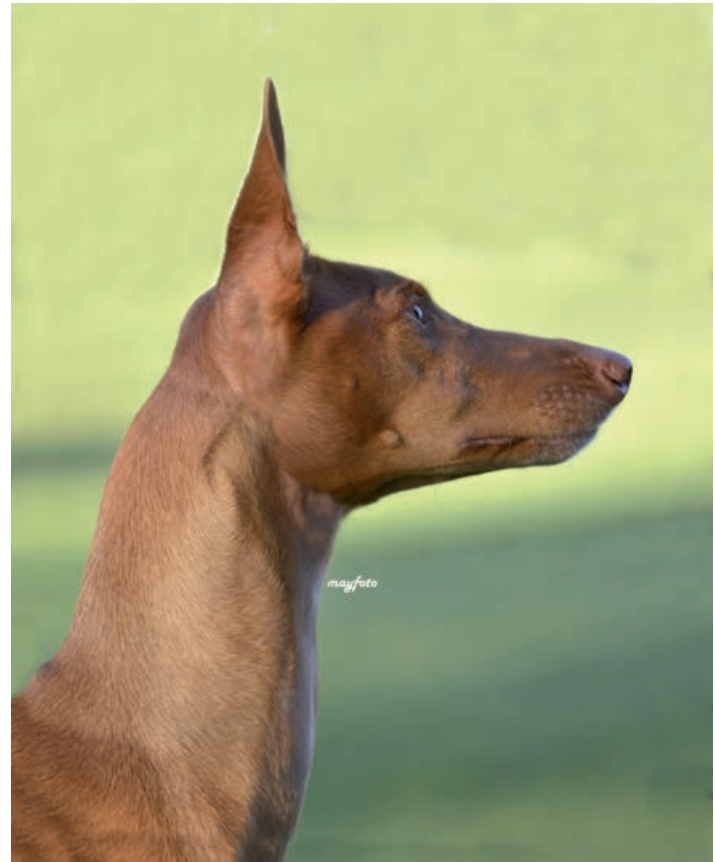

Compatibility with other pets:

Care with small animals. Not a problem with other dogs.

In conclusion:

Now you know a little about the Pharaoh Hound. If you have decided this is the dog for you, or if you would like more information, please contact either the relevant registered breeders Club or Dogs Queensland.

Either will be able to give you information about available puppies and also suggest dog shows where you can see the breed and speak to a breeder.

FEATURE BREED GALLERY INSIGHT

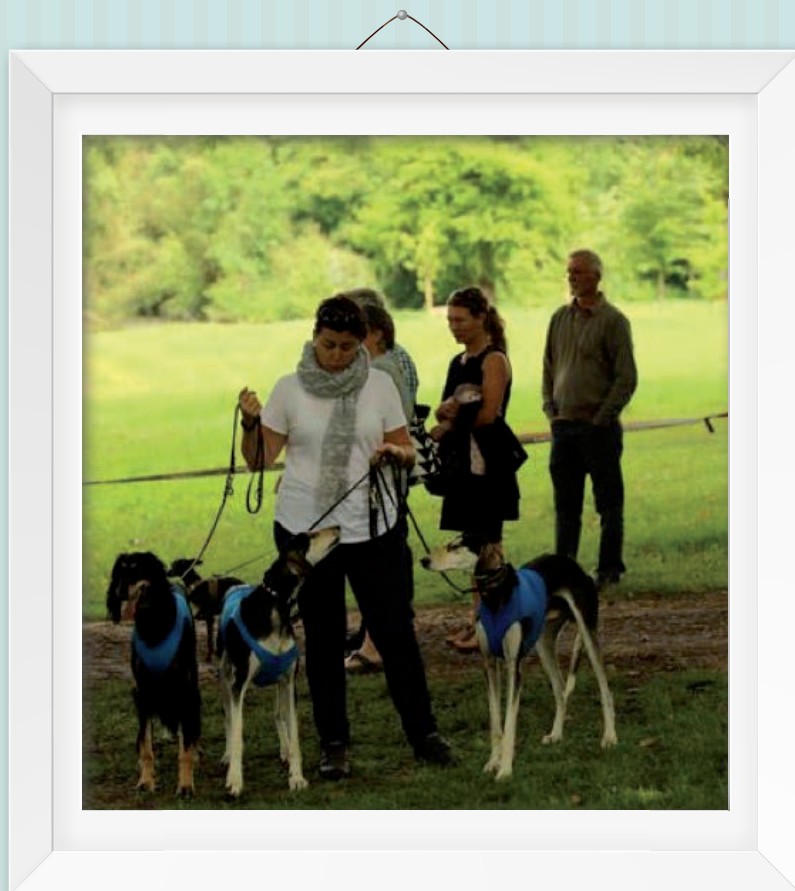

European Dog Show Holiday

Written by Rana Spencer

I recently returned from a two month trip to France on a work project and wanted to visit dog shows and some FCI lure coursing to see the differences, and see some dogs in the flesh that I had only seen via Facebook or the pedigree database that saluki fanciers use.

After the World Dog Show in Milan (where I was fortunate to handle a Peruvian Hairless, Huaco Huantuntupaq, from the famous Huatuntupaq kennels in Peru), I went to a Lure Coursing event at the Chateau Gerbevillers in Lorraine, France. The LC was unlike any I had heard of, or experienced myself: simply amazing!

I met up with Daniela van der Lichte (Hadi El Basher salukis, Belgium) and her four Salukis. I spoke with Daniela about future dog events and she mentioned the FALAPA specialty event (Afghan hound and Saluki club which has both a Show and LC components), so we arranged that I would help her out, as two of her smooth boys were entered in the same class.

I made time to visit and stay with Helen and Michael Williams (Kasaque salukis) who bred my dog's mother and paternal grandfather, imported to Australia by Christine Stevens (Crister salukis).

We had the traditional Kasaque garden party where I met eleven year old smooth Laliq (Eng Ch Caspian's L'aliq avec Kasaque) – the last smooth to be titled in the UK. I have often been told by judges that the smooth girl I show (Ch Crister Ameh) reminds them very much of her grandmother Laliq and I agree. At the Windsor Show the next day, there were so many smooths!

In fact, Helen told me that all of the smooths entered were either her direct breeding, or had come down from her breeding. It was a treat to see 66 salukis entered at an all-breeds show, judged by specialist Marie Bryce-Smith, who judged the 2015 NSW Saluki specialty show and gave our smooth girl Reserve Challenge.

About a week before the FALAPA specialty, Daniela had a bicycle accident and cracked her ribs so I was to handle two of her salukis. At the show, I met with Daniela and one of her oldest friends, Shera Chuat of Al Firdous Salukis, formerly Tal Amal (Daniela's foundation bitch was one of Shera's breeding). When Shera found out I was handling Daniela's boys and that I enjoyed showing, she added one of her own smooth girls to my dance-card.

The FALAPA Afghan and Saluki show is run quite differently to normal shows, and it is an experience!

All dogs are shown and critiqued in classes as normal, then a 'Judge's Selection' is made to reduce the numbers. After class judging is completed, the rings are combined and the classes are judged again with placings given up to 6th, and always switching between breeds and their respective judges.

All three dogs I showed made it through to Judge's Selection, and when it came to Placings, Shera gave me another dog of her breeding to show: a Junior bitch (Jaanaan-Vasari al Firdous) – yet another smooth!

This was my first experience in the placement ring and the girl showed very well and was rewarded with 1st place and went on to win BIS Junior! The young smooth girl is owned by Christine du Rot Hazard (Arab Bahari's salukis, France) and she reminded me of the smooth girl I show in Australia – with good reason, they share a very famous smooth relative – Arab Bahari's Shaahin Tali. I spoke later with Mme du Rot Hazard about our smooth girl in Australia doing very well and she was pleased to hear it.

In the Open Class, I showed the classically handsome LahatPar Hadi El Basher (who has been likened to the very famous Samoem's Sodom), who placed 2nd to Shera's boy, both receiving Excellent gradings; I also showed Shera's smooth girl, Ghadiya-Razuna al Firdous who placed 4th out of 13 present.

In the Working Class (open to those dogs who are proven LC competitors), I showed the effervescent smooth black grizzle, Lupulus Hadi El Basher. Lupo showed perfectly and was rewarded with 1st in Class, with his twin brother, LironPili Hadi El Basher placing 2nd –both with Excellent gradings.

After winning the CAC, the judge told me she ordinarily wasn't taken with smooths.

Finally we came to the pointy end of the competition: and this Super-Smooth was chosen as Best in Show Saluki. Because it was all spoken in French, I wasn't really following it, just listening for the dog's number, which fortunately was 100 ('cent' in French – easy!).

On the podium for the last time, the judge (Clair Chrissyolor, Anasazi salukis), expressed that this boy's condition, movement, and style won it for him.

Lupo's movement so reminded me of his brother, Lenoapayaz Hadi El Basher (owned by Anita Langford, Al Shira salukis), who I handled at the 2015 Sydney Royal, so it was nice to know the movement is very typical among the entire litter – as are their amazing temperaments!

The next day, the LC event was held on the same grounds as the first ever LC competition! Though I preferred the LC at the Chateau, this event gave me an opportunity to learn by comparison. The chateau coursing was held without fences, yet this day's coursing was in a fenced field; some of the dogs from the Chateau coursing were actually cutting the course because they know that the lure will never go through fences so then are able to work out where the lure would go.

At the end of the day, LironPili Hadi el Basher won the male saluki CAC, with Shera's young boy Ilias-Ushas al Firdous taking the Reserve (with the two boys I showed the day before making up the top few placings!).

While I enjoyed my time competing in the shows, I enjoyed far more meeting the names behind a lot of these famous long-time kennels, and having quality conversations to learn more about the breed that chose me.

It was also a thrill seeing so many smooth Salukis, and that they were placed well against their feathered counterparts. In one conversation with a long-time Saluki breeder and judge, I was told "if you don't like smooths, then you shouldn't judge Salukis".

In Europe, there are a lot of dogs who are bred for either showing or lure coursing/track racing BUT the ones who really caught my eye were the ones who are bred for both beauty and performance.

To me, it is these dogs who most closely fit the standard, as they are not exaggerated either way, and not only look like they can perform their original function, they can also prove it on the coursing field. Now that lure coursing is a recognised sport in Australia, I can't wait to see more Salukis and other Sighthounds who will also be bred specifically to excel in both fields.

Rarer Sighthounds FROM AROUND THE WORLD

Dogs Queensland Exclusive

Written by Rana Spencer

As a generalisation, the sighthound is known for its speed, which forms its physique: slender, long-limbed, doliocephalic head, and streamlined body. Regional variances affect how the individual breeds look, act, their method of hunting, and their prey.

The Sighthound breeds recognised by the ANKC are the Afghan Hound, Azawakh, Borzoi, Deerhound, Greyhound, Irish Wolfhound, Ibizan Hound, Italian Greyhound, Pharaoh Hound, Saluki, Sloughi, and Whippet. While we are all familiar with these breeds, they are only a fraction of the breeds that make up the Sighthound family.

In Europe, there are the numerous regional greyhound varieties: Magyar Agar (Hungarian Greyhound), Chart Polski (Polish Greyhound), Galgo Espanol (Spanish Greyhound), Hortaya Borzaya (Eastern Greyhound), and Hrti (Old Croatian Sighthound) - though not all are recognised as FCI breeds, they are distinctive in type.

The group called Oriental Sighthounds contain such breeds as the Bakhmull Tazi, Luchak Tazi, and Khalagh Tazi (resembling the Afghan, Sloughi, and Saluki respectively), and the Taigan. The Xigou is a Chinese breed, most similar to a saluki, but typically with roman nose and a few other differences – though interestingly, not all puppies in a litter are born with the roman profile!

The Indian breeds, such as Mudhol Hound, Caravan Hound, Kanni, Chippiparai, Rampur Hound, Rajapalayam (Poligar hound), and Mahratta Greyhound are mostly province-based, and there are reports of dedicated groups becoming involved with the Indian Kennel Club to promote and preserve the breeds and work towards recognition and creating breed standards, while some breeds are already recognised and shown.

The Oriental Sighthounds are presumed to be variants of a landrace/product of the Silk Road trading routes. Currently, there are DNA collections, and other projects being undertaken to establish origins and relationships between these dogs.

Facebook has become a fabulous tool for the sharing of information and resources on some of these rare breeds, and to allow people from outside their regions to learn about them. There are many groups that feature one breed, or a variety of similar breeds to compare and discuss.

Zone 2 Dog World Column - January 2016

Not much to report in Zone 2 for the month of January. I trust that all members enjoyed their Christmas and New Year break and are ready for another busy year.

We will be in for another big year in the Zone 2 region with a heavy schedule commencing from February / March.

What's On in Zone 2 in January?

- Maryborough Kennel Club Championship Shows – 2nd and 3rd January
- Drought Fundraiser Shows (Gladstone) – 23rd and 24th January

Please support the Drought Fundraiser shows in Gladstone in January. As well as the traditional dog show, a virtual show is being offered and the facility to lodge donations. Our farmers around Queensland have really struggled for years to deal with the effects of drought.

Show Workers Training

Following training in Bundaberg, Rockhampton and Mackay in December 2015 we hopefully have some new accredited workers for 2016.

Members who wish to access show workers training can contact me to register for an upcoming session.

I would like to extend a huge thank you from Dogs Queensland and all exhibitors to those who worked so hard in 2015 to make shows possible and those who are putting their hand up for the future.

Maryborough Show - a bit of a fright...

At the Maryborough Show on 31st October, members and their dogs were invited to participate in a Halloween parade. This event was lots of fun with several members doing a terrific job and really getting into the spirit of it.

Unfortunately, the night-time photos didn't turn out so well so I don't have any to show you, but it was a great bit of fun for members and well done to the club for running with it.

Incidents at Shows

Not so much limited to Zone 2, but there are increasing anecdotes appearing on Facebook and other social media maligning exhibitors breaking rules at shows.

The most recent item I viewed was about an exhibitor wearing a jacket that had their breeding prefix on it. This is not in line with the conditions of entry (Rule 148e).

There was much discussion that the steward or another official should have detected this and dealt with it.

We need to consider that at our shows the stewards and other workers are generally extremely busy so will not be specifically monitoring the finer points such as what logos may or may not be on clothing.

I would stress to all members that the officials are volunteers who are doing the best they can in the circumstances and they will not always be able to detect every little thing that happens.

As a participant however, if we observe something that doesn't appear correct we should bring it to the attention of an official, and in cases like this, it would be best to locate the Show Manager and advise them so it can be dealt with as the steward is already engaged with ensuring exhibits get into the ring.

If we have seen an issue and don't say something about it, we can't justifiably complain about the situation as we have had the opportunity to take responsibility to do something about it and have elected not to.

So the moral of this type of situation is that where a possible issue is identified, the Show Manager should be approached and the matter discussed. There is no value and no benefit in creating a social media storm after the fact.

January

In the October 2015 issue of The Queensland Dog World I was so disheartened by the Presidents message. Two thirds of the message was taken up addressing rumours, Dogs Queensland 'politics' and people being horrid on Facebook. The final third I was interested to note that progress is being made sorting out the camping schemozzle at Durack and information on Puppy and Dog of the Year.

I don't know about you, but I'd much prefer to read about the progress that's being made, than our President having to address pathetic gossip. For every serial complainer, gossip monger and troublemaker in the dog world, it is my genuine belief that there are fifty more of us that love showing dogs, are willing to embrace changes for the better and who are grateful to the hard working people that make this crazy world of ours spin.

I remember being at dog shows as a kid in the 90s, under those gaudy red and yellow Pal umbrellas (where on earth did they come from?).

We'd be hanging out with a bunch of people with all different breeds, there were brown Tupperware containers full of cabanossi, cheese cubes and those horrible little pickled onions. Everyone brought a plate to share, everyone congratulated the winner and if someone had a problem, it would always blow over by the following weekend. Now however, in the age of keyboard warriors and social media, things seem to not blow over. They fester. Rumours are spread.

Here's my pledge for 2016 and I invite you to join me. I'm going to be the change I want to see in the Dog World.

I'm going to support my competitors, even when they beat me. Even if I secretly think I deserved the win instead (let's face it, we all think that). I'm going to actually get involved in my clubs and help out. I will actively encourage new exhibitors and welcome them to our sport. I will do my best to make my contribution to the Dog World a positive one. For those of us who I so genuinely believe are in the majority, who are currently sitting by and watching as drama unfolds and threatens the sport we love, I ask you to do the same. Choose sportsmanship. Choose encouragement. Choose to contribute.

To kick it off, let's talk about losing.

We've all seen firsthand another exhibitor lose it when the judging doesn't go their way. I will be the first to admit that there have been a couple of occasions where I have gotten back to the gazebo and muttered a few choice words about getting buried myself. I have also seen the fallout when, in the heat of the moment, someone has had a total brain-fart and had a go at the judge, or very nearly gotten into fisticuffs with someone else ringside. Woah mama. That's a fast way to get everybody talking about you! It's moments like these that remind me that dog-showing is just like any other sport, except in this sport, your favourite players also happen to be the very creatures you share your heart and home with.

Like any other sport though, if you behave atrociously when you lose, eventually you will find yourself in a world of trouble. That trouble might be from your state canine control body, but more likely, the trouble will be when you're standing ringside with knots in your stomach, feeling increasingly defensive and ready to blow your stack at any moment. Let's be honest, we all know people like that and there's a high chance we've all felt like that at one point or another.

I've had the privilege of growing up surrounded by some amazing role models in the dog show world, so let me share some tips that I learned from them over the years.

Look for the positives in your competitors' dogs before getting your knickers in a twist about their faults. Most of the judges I know judge this way.

They first look at all the things about a dog that clearly reflect the standard, then they review how severely any faults deviate from that standard. If you can clearly see something that a judge really likes in another dog, it can make it easier to smile and shake your competitors hand when they beat you.

Smile. Even if you're seething, fake a smile. It's a sad reality that in this day and age, judges and stewards expect bad attitudes from many of the exhibitors. Just as they will remember you (and probably look you up online after the show) if you have a temperant, they will also remember the handler who is happy, warm and professional in the ring. Being thoughtful of the steward and respectful to the judge won't help you win if your dog isn't deserving, but it certainly can't hurt.

If there's a drama ringside, abort! Don't be that guy that rushes in to a volatile situation and fans the flames. Don't start throwing shade at whoever you think is in the wrong so that you can have a big old gossip about it later. The safest way to put out a fire is to deprive it of oxygen, so stand back, let the person make a wally of himself or herself and avoid making the situation worse. If you're genuinely concerned about the person, check in with them later when they've cooled off.

In any competition, there is a winner and a lot of disappointed not-winners. You can be Best in Show at the morning show and get beaten in Class in the afternoon (I've had THAT happen!). At the end of the day, the only person who can control how you feel about having a loss is you. You can choose to be a 'loser' about it and let it ruin your day, or you can choose to look for the positives, smile and support your fellow exhibitor. That choice effects only you, so for me personally, I choose to have a glass of wine, cuddle my dogs and enjoy my day regardless.

Over the coming months, check your catalogue for Mexicatl or Ashblanc Chihuahuas (North Queensland I will do my best to come visit) and if I'm entered, come on down to group one and say hi. Let's acknowledge that the Dog World on a national level has a culture problem and let us Queenslanders lead the way in addressing it, one disgusting bright green cocktail onion at a time.

Until February my friends.

Xx Ash

BADGER'S STORY

BY LEAH PERRY

NEUT CH WILDHARE SIMPLY SCHERZANDO SC (IMP USA)

I moved to USA in 2009 leaving behind my two whippets with Mum. I had decided that I wasn't going to take them with me and I would live without a dog for my time in Texas.

Well that lasted 6 weeks!

I got in contact with the Whippet network and put it out there that I was after a young Whippet and in a matter of 10 days I was in contact with Dwight and Paula Caffee from Oklahoma (Wildhare Whippets). They had a young male looking for an understanding home. Badger and I became a team on Thanksgiving weekend. It was a tough road in the beginning to say the least but we made it out the other side.

I competed in agility in Australia so it seemed only natural that we pursue that avenue.

Badger figured out the agility game quite quickly (much to my surprise!) and we were working on our CGC title as well. I established friendships with so many Whippet people in Austin - they suggested Badger try lure coursing and the rest they say is history!

It took Badger a little while to figure out that it was ok to leave my side (we all know how special he is) but when he did it was magical to watch - he was flying.

We spent most weekends in the car driving for hours and hours to attend various lure coursing meets all through Texas, Oklahoma, Louisiana, Colorado just to name a few. Thank goodness for the relaxed laws regarding dogs staying in motels - it made traveling so much easier.

Member Insight

The Queensland Dog World

At his peak he made it to number 17 lure coursing whippet in USA which was no mean feat given the lack of trials available within a reasonable driving distance from Austin. At his fastest - a friend used a speed gun and clocked him at 38mph!

I withdrew him from the rest of the coursing season when I knew I was returning to Australia as I couldn't risk an injury.

We both arrived in Australia and within 10 days I had to return to Townsville where my substantive teaching position was based. Naturally Badger and Ceilidh (Kaylee) came with me. They both got very used to our Sunday morning walks on the beach.

When Lure Coursing became a recognised sport in January of this year, Badger was given dispensation to start in the Open Stakes at Lure Coursing as he was the only Sighthound in Australia at that stage that held an official Lure Coursing title and who could qualify other sighthounds to compete in the Open Stakes.

In the beginning when Lure Coursing became official, he would sometimes do up to five runs in a morning, equating to approximately between 2 to 3 kms.

He is now well on his way to gaining his Australian Lure Coursing Title and the winner of the 2015 Queensland Sighthound Association Crister Perpetual Trophy for highest scoring Sighthound in the Open Stakes class. He is loved by everyone and is a very special whippet who has contributed immensely to the sport of lure coursing here in Australia.

Upon returning to Brisbane - not quite sure how it all came about but I was asked to be on the working party to establish a Sighthound Club to promote our dual purpose hounds. Naturally this was something I was very excited to be a part of and the rest is history. Here we all are today celebrating the end of our first year of competition.

Thank you to everyone who has supported the club to get where we are today.

EASTER EGGSTRAVAGANZA! RESUMES

Olga Gagne

I am a retired public school teacher. My husband and I live in the country side close to Niagara Falls, Ontario. In 1974, I acquired my first Giant Schnauzer. It has been a love affair with dogs ever since. In the beginning, I delved into obedience training, conformation showing, tracking, schutzhund and everything else the dog world had to offer. A few years later, breeding came into the scene. Under the Bluechip prefix, I have bred numerous Canadian and American Champions. Many of my Giant Schnauzers have had major specialty wins, Best in Shows wins. Best Puppy in Show wins, and top rankings in the breed in Canada. In 1988, my Giant was #1 Working Dog in Canada. He was also #5 Working the Dog the previous year and was the top Giant Schnauzer in Canada for 5 consecutive years. This dog was an influential stud dog in both Canada and the US and he paved the way for making the breed a serious competitor in the group. In 1995, my daughter and I, purchased a Papillon. This led to showing, and trialing in obedience and in agility. It was a whole new world from a toy dog perspective. We now have a conscientious successful breeding program going on with Papillons also!

As well as being actively involved in showing and breeding, I am an involved member, holding various executive positions, in many clubs. Currently, I am President of Giant Schnauzer Canada and Director of Papillon Canada. I'm also a long standing member of both breed clubs in the United States. I also work in the administrative end of planning dog events for a few all breed clubs in my area. I am approved as an all breed judge by the Canadian Kennel Club. As well, as judging throughout Canada, I have judged in the US, Colombia, Ecuador, Korea and China. I have been honoured to judge the National Specialties of both the Giant Schnauzer and the Papillon in Canada. I have also judged the American Giant Schnauzer National Specialty, and numerous American Regional Specialties for the Papillon.

I am looking forward to my trip to Australia to judge! It is wonderful to meet new people and see dogs all over the world. We have a common bond. No matter who we are, or where we are from, the love is the same!

Tan Oo Hock

Mr. TAN Oo Hock is a prominent business man in Malaysia. With his family, he has spent almost his entire life in the world of pedigree dogs. Since 1977, he has been involved in the breeding and exhibition of Boxers, Standard Smooth Dachshund, Doberman, German Shepherd Dogs, Miniature Pincers, Poodles, (Miniature and Toy varieties) Pugs, Rottweilers and has specialised in the GSD and PUG breeds for over 30 years.

First licensed to judge in 1983, Mr. Tan Oo Hock was elevated to All Breeds status in 1996 and has to date officiated at more than two hundred shows in the following countries; Australia, Canada, China, Hong Kong, India, Indonesia, Japan, New Zealand, Pakistan, Philippines, Russia, Singapore, Slovenia, South Africa, South Korea, Sri Lanka, Sweden, Thailand, Taiwan and Vietnam. Honored in 1995 to be invited as the first Asian Judge to officiate at the German Shepherd Dog Specialty held in Sydney Australia, he was again sort after for the same event in the year 2000 and again for the GSD Specialty held in Brisbane Australia in 2001.

In addition, he has officiated at specialty events for Boxer, Doberman, Golden Retriever, Miniature Pincer, Pomeranian, Pug and Rottweiler breeds. In a twenty year span of service to the Malaysian Kennel Association, Mr. Tan Oo Hock has served as President, Vice President and for various Sub-committees. As a former Director of the Asian Kennel Union, he was elected as a standing committee member in 2002.

Julie Keenan

I started in the dog world with my husband Mark in 1985, with Newfoundlands, which we successfully showed for a number of years. I have also owned and showed PMD and Samoyeds and owned a mini schnauzer. I currently own an American Cocker. I now don't show but am on 5 committees and work at shows stewarding and ticket writing. I am licensed for 2 3 4 5 6 7 and aspiring for 1.

Godofredo Salud

Dogs have been a constant in Fred's life. While the American Cocker Spaniel was his first breed, it was the Doberman that really started his commitment to the world of showing and breeding purebred dogs. His first dobe, which was acquired in 1990 became the top winning and a top-producing bitch during her time and was behind all the Dobermans that carry the Aegis prefix. Many of her progeny became multi- Best In Show and Best in Specialty Show Winners, in the process earning for themselves the Philippine Champion, Grand Champion and Hall of Fame titles.

He has also shown and bred a number of Champion Whippets including the very first local born to attain the Philippine Hall of Fame title for this breed. He was a past president of the Philippine Doberman Federation, was the founding president of the Cavite Canine Club Inc, and has been a member of the Board of Directors of the Philippine Canine Club, Inc. (PCCI) since 2008. Since 2009, he has held various positions for the PCCI including Vice President, Treasurer and Corporate Secretary. Currently, he is the Chairman of the Registration Committee and Corporate Planning Committee. He Judged his first breed in 2000 and was first allowed to judge All-Breeds in 2010. He has judged in various parts of the Philippines, as well as in Indonesia, Thailand, Japan, Australia, Malaysia, Sri Lanka, India and South Africa.

Ana Beatrix Knoll

I've started my dog's interest in 1980, when I owned an English Cocker. My first show as visitor was in August 1980 and in October the same year I was showing the first dog in the ring. An Afghanhound, my first show dog. My husband Mario Knoll began his Lhasa breeding about the same year, and that time he was very involved with dobermanns too. For many years we have worked both breeds, Lhasas and Afghans, and we had made several champions in Brazil and abroad. Our Kennel called Excalibur Quest worked with Pugs from 1996 till 2003, and from this year till now we've been very involved with Pomeranians, as breeder and exhibitors.

Actually, we are not showing our dogs very often but we still have had very involved in Pomeranian breeding. And also always following my passion for Afghanhounds. Our Lhasas has been number 01 in the breed since 2006 and always between 5 best in the other years until 2012 when we decided to pause our Lhasa breeding. We were too the co-owner Top Pomeranian in South America. N.01 in the breed and top 10 all breed 2006/ 2007 in Argentine and Uruguay. We bred the Pomeranian Number 01 All breed in Uruguay 2013.

I have been judged as all rounder since 1995 and Mario since 1998 in several Brazilian shows, all breeds and specialties. I had judged in almost all countries from South America, South Africa, Australia, Canada, Mexico, and several European country like Croatia, Finland, Italy, Poland, Portugal, Denmark, Switzerland and Luxemburg.

Carol Gunn

My involvement in the Dog World began in the early 1970s helping my Uncle with his English Springer Spaniels, but it was not until the mid 1980s that I began to actively breed, and handle my own dogs. I have always been drawn to the Gundog Group and have exhibited Cocker Spaniels, English Setters, Irish Setters and my beloved Pointers.

I entered Judges Training In 1999 and now hold six groups at Championship Level and hope to complete my final Group in 2016. I have judged in most states of Australia and also in New Zealand. I am currently the Assistant Coordinator for Group 3 Judges Training, serve on the Breaches Panel and on the Committee of the Ladies Kennel Association of Qld. I consider it an honour each time I am asked to Judge and hope I can give something back to the sport I love.

Peter Machen

First Afghan Hound in 1973. First Litter produced AKC and GKC CH group winners and BIS, SBIS winner. Our dogs now featured prominently in the pedigrees of some of the top Afghan Kennels in UK, Canada, USA and Scandinavia. We bred a SIRE OF SIGNIFICANCE which produced top winners and producers in USA and CANADA. Several of our Afghans became multi BIS and SBIS winners. BREEDER OWNER HANDLED.

We also had Chinese Cresteds for 15 years, starting with an ENG/AM/CDN Champion of superb type. We are no longer involved in the breed. We also owned and showed Bouviers, Bearded Collies and Smooth Fox terriers. I started judging in 1991 and became ALL BREED JUDGE in 2003 I have been honoured to have judged ALL BREED and SPECIALTY SHOWS in Canada, USA, Ireland, South Africa, Australia, New Zealand, Colombia, Hong Kong, Mexico, Japan and China.

We have been invited speakers at TWO Afghan Hound World Congresses and been interviewed by 5 International Afghan Hound magazines and Three Canadian All Breed Magazines. We also present a judges study group SEMINAR on the AFGHAN HOUND. We produced several NUMBER 1 'BREEDER OWNER HANDLED' Afghans in Canada (Top MALE and FEMALE) and have had several dogs in USA Top twenty. We bred the SIRE of the Afghan Hound Club of America Futurity winner, and same dog sired AHCA BOS National winner. He was top AFGHAN in Canada twice. I enjoy judging and consider it a serious responsibility to evaluate breeding stock which is the future of our sport.

We will continue to breed and show our own Afghan hounds.

We were founding members of the following clubs. Wentworth County Kennel Club, Erie Shores Kennel Club, Ontario Afghan Hound Association, and Southern Counties Hound Breech Association. Current Member of Southern Counties Hound Breeds Assoc. Southern Ontario Sight hound Association JJFE Member of CKC, Canadian Dog Judges Assoc. And in USA, Member of Pasco Florida Kennel Club, Hernando County Kennel Club and the Florida Judges Study Group.

Garfield Franklin Van Der Spuy

In his youth he was raised with Rough Collies, Schipperkes and Pekingese. The Rough Collies were used for herding Jersey Milk Cows which required special patience as the cows were not allowed to run due to being heavy milk bearing Schipperkes guarding the stables and the Pekingese were the 'guard dogs' of the home. In 1963 he obtained his first non registered Boston Terrier and has never been without one till 1999. During his student years in England and Canada (1965 to 1968) his parents looked after his Bostons. In 1969 he obtained his first registered Boston. Further studies (1972 and 1973) in Canada again required his parents to keep a 'very careful eye' on his precious stock. He has bred 50 plus Boston Terrier and French Bulldog champions. Since then the ownership of Bostons has included importing from Canada, England, New Zealand and the USA and exporting to Zimbabwe, Portugal and Israel.

His judging 'career' started in 1968 but only really took off in 1976 when studies were completed. Presently he is an all breeds, and Best in Show judge since 1984. He has judged more than 25 specialist breed club shows. He has judged at home (South Africa) and internationally, Namibia, Zimbabwe, England, Australia, New Zealand, America, Russia, Canada and Brazil. Franklin served as a councillor of Kennel Union of South Africa representing Orange Free State and Namibia for six years. He presently owns and shows Staffordshire Bull Terriers and Boston Terriers and is very involved as a Kennel Union of Southern Africa moderator for aspirant judges' reports. He is a life member of the Pietermaritzburg Kennel Club. In his retirement he is a keen collector of stamps - thematically 'dogs on stamps. He loves growing and showing roses and is still involved in growing and breeding Clivias.
